LakeLife

THE BRAND GUIDE

Lake life. Clearly handled.

A familiar look.
A clear promise.
An easy next step.

Recruitment edition / October 2026
For the LakeLife team and creative partners
LakeLife.ai

WHAT WE STAND FOR

Less to chase. More clarity.

LakeLife brings the details of property care into one place, so people can see what needs doing, what it costs and what happened.

THE TEN-SECOND INTRODUCTION

LakeLife helps park owners manage the money record and property work, and helps homeowners coordinate care for their lake homes.

The feeling

Calm, capable and local. Like someone who knows the lake and keeps track of the details.

Warm enough to feel personal. Specific enough to earn trust.

The proof

A clear service total. A record of the work. Photos before a job counts as complete. Homeowner approval for proposed changes that affect their bill.

> Make the next decision easy. Explain who LakeLife helps, the problem it solves and the next step. A useful conversation is a stronger invitation than a large promise.

ONE BRAND, TWO CLEAR INVITATIONS

Start with their property

Lead with park owners in the combined pitch. Give homeowners their own clearly labeled page.

PARK OWNERS

Your park, in one place

Rent records, shared costs and crew work for mobile-home and RV parks.

THEIR QUESTION

“What is owed, and what still needs doing?”

SHOW THEM

Scheduled bills by lot, shared expense records and booked property work.

INVITE THEM

Ask for a walkthrough.
Review their lots, costs and service needs.

HOMEOWNERS

Your lake house, ready when you are

Seasonal care and recurring services for the lake home and the things around it.

THEIR QUESTION

“Who is handling it, and how will I know it is done?”

SHOW THEM

The service total, booking details and photos of finished work.

INVITE THEM

Choose your first service.
Review price and local availability.

> Brand name: LakeLife, one word, capital L in both words. Use LakeLife.ai as the main address. The original homeowner tagline is “Your lake house, ready when you are.”

THE LOGO

A sun above the water

Use the original mark and wordmark from the prototype. Keep the gold sun, both wave shapes and the LakeLife lettering together.

PRIMARY TREATMENT

White “Lake” and gold “Life” on deep water blue. On light pages, place this lockup on a clean dark band.

CLEAR SPACE

Leave at least one sun diameter around the whole lockup. Keep captions, borders and other marks outside that space.

The standalone mark works where the LakeLife name is already visible.

Recommended size	Full lockup: at least 120 px wide on screen or 32 mm in print. Mark alone: at least 24 px or 6 mm. Increase size if details lose clarity.
Keep it consistent	Preserve proportions. Use supplied artwork. Keep the mark upright and the wordmark on one line. Avoid shadows, outlines or extra symbols.

THE LAKE PALETTE

Deep water. Open sky.

Use the prototype's exact colors. Dark blue anchors the brand, teal supports action, and gold draws attention to the next step.

Deep water
#0A2430
Primary dark / logo background

Dusk lake
#0F3648
Secondary dark / hero depth

Open water
#137A8C
Primary teal / action color

Shallow water
#BFE3E8
Soft fills / text on dark blue

Morning mist
#F3F8F9
Page background / breathing room

Buoy gold
#E9B44C
Small highlights / main invitation

Supporting colors

Body text #20343D. Secondary text #5D7681. Borders #DCE9EC. White #FFFFFF. Dark teal #0E5E6D. Soft gold #FBF1DC.

Success #2E8B57 Warning #C7772A Error #B34A3A

> Readable pairings: deep water text on mist, white on teal, and deep water on gold. Use gold as an accent on light pages. Keep labels alongside status colors so color never carries the meaning alone.

THE ORIGINAL FONT PAIRING

Friendly, clear type

Bricolage Grotesque

Headlines, section titles and the wordmark. Use weights 700 or 800 for display. Keep headings compact and left aligned.

Manrope

Body copy, labels, prices and instructions. Use 400 or 500 for reading, 700 or 800 for emphasis.

Headline Prototype: 30–46 px / 800	Ready when you are
Section title Prototype: 20 px / 800	What can we get ready?
Body Prototype: 15–16 px	Review the service and its pricing status.
Label Prototype: 12 px / 800	FOR PARK OWNERS

> For documents and slides: keep the same pairing and scale it for the viewing distance. Aim for 11–12 pt body text in printed guides and 18 pt or larger for main slide copy. Keep small labels brief.

A FAMILIAR VISUAL RHYTHM

Room to read

Start with one clear headline. Give it a short explanation and an obvious next step. Let the original wave motif join dark hero areas to the light page.

FOR LAKE HOMEOWNERS

Your lake house, ready when you are

LakeLife.ai

Brand composition example using the original wave artwork.

Seasonal home care

Piers

Lifts

Boat care

Lawn care

Layout

Keep generous margins and a clear reading order. Align text to a shared left edge. Use 14 px corner radii for cards and 10 px for action buttons when echoing the product.

In print and slides, use fewer boxes. Let type size and space create the hierarchy.

Imagery

Use the existing service illustrations. For photography, choose real local properties and real work with permission to share.

Keep completion photos factual. Avoid customer names, addresses, access codes or payment information in marketing screenshots.

HOW LAKELIFE SOUNDS

Helpful. Specific. Human.

Talk about the person's property and the work they need. Use everyday words and tell them what happens next.

INSTEAD OF	USE
"An end-to-end property management ecosystem."	"Rent records, shared costs and crew work in one place."
"Unlock seamless service orchestration."	"Choose the service you need. See the price before anything is charged."
"Your request has been processed."	"We received your request. Your date is not confirmed yet."
"Set it and forget it forever."	"Review the next seasonal visit and book when you're ready."
"Guaranteed savings with zero hassle."	"See the price and the work record in one place."

> Use the customer's words: crew, service, total, photos, your park, your lake home. Save terms such as routing, vendor margin and payment rails for internal conversations.

Write "scheduled" only when a date is confirmed. Write "complete" only after the job meets its completion requirements. Keep reassurance tied to a specific action.

COPY TO USE

Your lake house, ready when you are

Lead with the next service they already need. Explain the price and the proof before describing the rest of the platform.

SHORT HOMEOWNER INVITATION

Opening the house, pulling the pier, getting the lawn ready? LakeLife brings your lake-home services into one place. Review one clear service price, keep track of the work and see completion photos in your property record.

Visit LakeLife.ai to explore services for your property.

What can LakeLife help with?

Seasonal opening and closing, piers and lifts, boat winterization and storage, lawn care and housekeeping. Confirm service availability for the property.

What will it cost?

Pricing follows the current service mode: a menu, negotiated park rate or crew quote. Some requests await a crew quote. See the price before anything is charged. Keep internal crew costs out of customer materials.

How will I know the work is done?

The job requires completion photos. The property record keeps the work and photos together.

What if the crew finds something different?

The homeowner approves proposed profile corrections before they change the profile or affect billing.

> Local first: name Big Long, Pretty and Big Turkey Lakes, Indiana. Confirm coverage and seasonal conditions before promising a date.

COPY TO USE

Your park, in one place

Start with the records and work the owner already handles. Make the first step a walkthrough of their own needs.

SHORT PARK OWNER INVITATION

Running a mobile-home or RV park means keeping up with rent, shared expenses and the crews who do the work. LakeLife brings those records together, with scheduled bills by lot, shared cost records and photos before crew work counts as complete.

Visit LakeLife.ai and tell us about your park. We'll walk through what setup would look like for you.

Do I have to set everything up myself?

Park setup is guided. Review the lots, rents and shared costs together before billing begins.

Can I still record cash and checks?

Yes. The resident records that they paid and the owner confirms receipt. Both sides are part of crediting the bill.

Can we use our existing crew?

Ask about inviting them through crew onboarding. Required documents and insurance still apply before work can be routed.

What does LakeLife cost the park?

Review the applicable setup and platform fees during the walkthrough. Quote current approved terms before the owner commits.

PROMISES PEOPLE CAN UNDERSTAND

Be clear about what happens

The easiest promise to believe is one the customer can see in the product.

One service total	Say what the service includes and show the customer's total. Keep internal costing and margins out of shared sales materials.
Photos required	Say "photos before the job counts as complete." Avoid implying a photo alone guarantees quality, condition or a customer's satisfaction.
Approval first	For proposed profile corrections, explain that the homeowner approves before the change affects the profile or bill.
Dates with context	Separate a requested date from a confirmed visit. Lake conditions and crew availability affect seasonal work.
Payments	Describe cash and check records accurately. Confirm live payment processing before advertising automatic charges, bank debit or card collection.
Local coverage	Use confirmed service areas. Ask about the property or park before committing to a crew or start date.

> Use evidence for stronger claims. Publish savings, response times, testimonials and customer counts only when verified. Offer terms such as free trials or guaranteed dates need an approved, specific offer.

THE RECRUITMENT KIT

One clear next step

The three-page pitch introduces both audiences without mixing their needs. Use the PDF for sharing and the PowerPoint for presenting or editing.

01 The park owner's benefit

Rent records, shared costs and crew work in one place. Begin with the task the owner is spending time chasing.

02 The homeowner's benefit

A clear service price, completion photos and homeowner approval for proposed changes. Name the services and local lakes.

03 The invitation

Park owners ask for a walkthrough. Homeowners explore their first service. The main address is LakeLife.ai.

The five-second check

- Can someone tell whether this is for them?
- Can they explain what LakeLife helps them do?
- Can they find the next step without asking?
- Are the price, date and service claims accurate?
- Do the logo, colors and type match this guide?

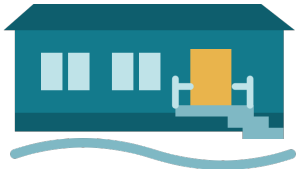

Source of truth

Visual identity and homeowner tagline: lakelife.html. Brand artwork: src/components/Brand.tsx. Service behavior: current code, tests and migrations, reconciled with owner decisions. Older briefs do not override later implemented pricing decisions. Park messaging: src/app/for-parks/page.tsx. Current homepage wording: src/app/page.tsx. Readiness: verify the current deployment; historical readiness notes are not launch approval. Website confirmed by the product owner: LakeLife.ai.

This guide documents the existing identity and proposes recruitment copy and usage guidance. It does not change product behavior or set new commercial terms. Source review: 17 October 2026.

AUDIENCE AND SCENE GUIDE

The right picture for the right place.

Mobile homes

Long, low roof. Skirting, porch and steps.

RVs

Wheels, hitch and a compact trailer profile.

Lake homes

The original house illustration for homeowners.

Use the mobile home and RV together for general park-owner and renter materials. Use one alone only when the actual housing type is known. Artwork never assigns an account type or changes permissions.

Approved illustrative scene: warm sun, simple shoreline and a seasonal aluminum pier. Generated artwork; not a real customer property or proof of completed work.

Keep the family together. Use the original LakeLife logo, teal, gold and wave details. Housekeeping keeps its cleaning illustration. Service icons describe the service, not the resident. Keep images proportional and text labels visible.